Reflection on the Synod on Synodality

This is an excerpt of a reflection written by Jane Leyden Cavanaugh who supports Discerning Deacons. Her passion is the reform and renewal of the Catholic Church. After a 12-year career in comedy in Minneapolis, Chicago and Los Angeles, Jane got a Masters degree in Theology and a Certificate in Spiritual Direction.

As we experience this new synodal way of being in the Catholic Church under Pope Francis' leadership, I'm interested in shifting our story about what's going on in the church now. We need a Big Shift in the way we talk about the Catholic Church and our relationship to the church so that we can have a "visionary conversation for people that uplift them and connect them to their courage." Here is a chart I created that distills some of the ways I believe we need to make The Big Shift from an old, tired narrative to a new, energizing narrative:

A scripture verse that encapsulates the old, tired narrative is Psalm 1, verse 1: "Happy are those who do not follow the advice of the wicked or take the path that sinners tread or sit in the seat of scoffers..."

Old, Tired Narrative	New, Energizing Narrative
"Sit in the Seat of Scoffers" Psalm 1:1	"Here I am Lord, Send me." Isaiah 6:8
Complain	Lament & Pray
Observer	Protagonist
Ego driven	Holy Spirit driven
Church is Dying	Church is Birthing
Us vs Them	We

Like the psalmist said, it's time to fundamentally stop scoffing about our broken Church and start doing something, which is summed up nicely in Isaiah 6:8 "Here I am Lord, send me."

We need to do less complaining and more praying, including the powerful prayer of lament: "I'm sad. This is not an easy time, God. Help us create a church closer to your vision of community."

We need to leave the observer's seat, where it is so very easy to critique "those people who are doing it wrong" and step into being a protagonist, part of the solution where we put some skin in the game.

We need to shift from being about "What I want or think needs to be done" – that's the ego – to "What does the Holy Spirit want? Where is the Spirit taking us?"

We need to shift from interpreting the pain of the church we are experiencing as a sign of its death to wondering: "What if this pain is a sign of the church birthing something new?" Many women know the pain of the birthing process. And we also know that the new life is worth the pain.

The full reflection can be found here <https://bit.ly/DDBigShift>.

PRAY FOR THE DECEASED

 Thom Digman (husband of Jo-Ann Digman)

May they and all the departed share in the peace and joy of God's presence forever.

Antiracism at College Church

At College Church, antiracism is an expression of our recognition that all are created in the image of God. As such, we respond—personally and collectively—to the call to identify, and to actively challenge, structures and systems that devalue people on the basis of race, and to practice restoration in the pursuit of justice.

Being Fully Inclusive

As our parish engages in the work of becoming an antiracist church, we are recognizing that not only do we need to communicate and confirm a sense of belonging to people of all races, we must be more inclusive of people who experience discrimination based on other aspects of identity. That includes people who identify as LGBTQ+. We can begin by remembering the words of Pope Francis who said, “If a person is [LGBTQ+] and seeks out the Lord, . . . who am I to judge that person?” He was paraphrasing the Catechism of the Catholic Church which states that LGBTQ+ people should be treated with “respect, compassion, and sensitivity” just like everyone else. [Catechism, paragraph 2358] We will also be more intentional about sharing the stories, perspectives, and issues of people who are LGBTQ+; exploring, in particular, the intersectionality with racism; and including the ways in which these stories impact the Catholic faith we share.

A Brief History of Pride Month

The month of June has come to be known as Pride Month. It honors and commemorates the movement for LGBT rights. Following a series of gay liberation protests in 1969, known as the Stonewall Uprising, people organized in support of gay rights, and within two years after the uprising, gay rights groups had been started in nearly every major city in the United States. Many communities sponsor parades and other events celebrating LGBT culture. The first St. Louis Pride celebration was held in 1980 with a week of activities followed by the Lesbian and Gay Walk for Charity. Since that time it has become an annual, month-long event, committed to celebrating diversity and affirming all identities within the community.

Becoming an Anti-Racist Church: Journeying Toward Wholeness

One of the sources of information and inspiration that continues to guide the work of the Antiracism Team is the book Becoming an Anti-Racist Church: Journeying Toward Wholeness by Joseph Barndt. The author is a Lutheran minister and founder of Crossroads Antiracism Organizing and Training with whom we are partnering for our parish racial equity review. In this book, Barndt lays a foundation for both personal and institutional change. He explores the history of racism in the Christian church, describes how racial injustice became institutionalized in the church in America, and sets out methods for appraising and addressing systemic racism within congregations.

Significant Figures in Racial History This Week

Died June 16, 1944 – Teenager George Stinney at the South Carolina Penitentiary in Columbia, SC. At age 14, he was the youngest person ever executed in the U.S. during the 20th century for the rape and murder of two white girls that he did not commit. Stinney was exonerated in 2014, the judge saying that he was deprived of due process throughout his trial.

Book Group on the St. Louis-based Spiritual Sponsor of A.A., “Father Ed,” Sundays at 9:15am in the Adult Faith Room

Interested in learning more about the connections between the spirituality of Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.) and Saint Ignatius? Join us this Sunday in the Adult Faith Room as we discuss the biography of Fr. Edward Dowling, a St. Louis-based Jesuit priest who was the spiritual sponsor to the founder of A.A., Bill Wilson.

A.A. has not only helped millions of alcoholics transform their lives, but has also developed a distinctive form of pragmatic spirituality for people who are imperfect, don't have their lives together, and don't “fit in” well within organized religion (i.e., most people). Father Ed, who celebrated Mass at College Church numerous times, and whose funeral Mass was held at College Church in front of a packed house on April 2nd, 1960, not only helped develop the spiritual foundations of A.A., but was also an early champion of civil rights and social justice in the Archdiocese of St. Louis.

Come join us and learn more about Fr. Ed, his life, and the spirituality of A.A. and St. Ignatius. Copies of the book are available for $23. For a copy or for more information, contact Joe Milner, joe@sfxstl.org.

Archbishop Rozanski's message to the faithful

ALL THINGS NEW

The Church recently celebrated the Solemnity of Pentecost, commemorating the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the Apostles, the foundation of the Church and the beginning of her mission to all nations and peoples.

The mystery of Pentecost urges us to pray and commit to the mission. The Holy Spirit inspires faith, hope and charity in the hearts of the faithful and ennobles the numerous and varied ways of transmitting the Christian message according to the culture and customs of all times and places. While giving us access to communion with God in prayer, the Holy Spirit also prompts us toward service of our neighbor by encountering him, reconciliation, witness, desire for justice and peace, renewal of outlook, social progress and missionary commitment.

We launched the All Things New strategic pastoral planning process almost two years ago. We prayed to the Holy Spirit for guidance and committed ourselves to this archdiocese's faithful. An extensive listening process was undertaken in all parishes. I then consulted the archdiocesan Council of Priests regarding every parish under consideration. I then spent time in further prayer, study and discernment. I have reached the following decisions about the archdiocese.

Moving forward, the Archdiocese of St. Louis will be reshaped from 178 individual parishes into 135 parishes. These parishes will be overseen about 90 diocesan pastors and 17 religious order pastors; many will serve more than one parish.

These modifications include 35 parishes being subsumed into neighboring parishes and 15 parishes being merged to create five new parishes. There will be a new personal parish for the Spanish-speaking community in St. Charles County.

Our communities should reevaluate their current pastoral care, social outreach and evangelization efforts to see how they can be refined or reinvented, even those parishes where there is no change to the pastor or parish structure.

Our new vicariate model, with parishes grouped by geographic region, will reinforce this by helping streamline parish support and administration. I am also establishing a new Office of Parish Mission and Vitality to help me oversee these efforts.

Over the next several months, our priests will discern with their people what the best use of our facilities should be. Priority will be given to providing the sacraments and necessary pastoral care to all who live within their boundaries and reimagining what a vibrant, evangelizing parish should look like.

As we pray through these changes, we are all called to work together toward one common mission: to make all things new for the glory of our Risen Lord.

Many parishioners are taking on more responsibility for their faith and service to others. In the past several months, 2,000 parishioners across the archdiocese have participated in our Evangelization 101 series, empowering them to ignite a new spark of evangelization in their parishes.

In St. Louis, we are called today to start a new chapter in our 200-year history. May a new Pentecost set us each ablaze for the Gospel of Christ. I pray that we will work together to forge new pathways and ensure that the treasure of our faith continues to bring healing and hope to a broken world.

May the Holy Spirit guide us.
