FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

The story of Samuel, Eli and the voice of God is a wonderfully humorous metaphor for our spiritual lives. Samuel is young and inexperienced in the Lord's ways. He hears God's call but does not understand it. Eli is old and perhaps a bit jaded. His main concern seems to be a good night's sleep.

There is an almost slapstick back and forth as they try to figure what exactly is going on. Finally, the light bulb goes off in Eli's head. He recognizes God is calling Samuel, and instructs him in the right answer. Samuel is able to respond to the invitation of the Lord.

It is a charming scene that speaks to spiritual truths: the difficulty of comprehending God's call, the "sleepiness" that can cloud our judgment, and the need to seek the help of others to understand God's presence. A perfect prayer primer in a few short verses.

Most importantly, the story relates the dogged persistence of God. One gets the sense the Lord would have called Samuel a million times if that was what it took. We can ignore, miss, or mistake the invitation over and over again, yet the invitation remains.

- Provide much-needed emotional support, love and encouragement to the participant
- Create a resourceful network to help meet basic needs – ranging from transportation and childcare, to household furnishings and clothing
- Supplement Academy services to help participants achieve goals outlined in their customized life plans and career blueprints
- Foster individual growth through the creation and implementation of a personal project that contributes to the greater good of society

No preparation needed. Just come as you are! Teens welcome, folks fresh from RCIA welcome! Facilitators are Lea Koesterer, Steve Gilbert, and Carla Mae Streeter, OP.
