FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

It may not feel like it but we are well into autumn. This is the traditional harvest time in the northern hemisphere. Most of us are far removed from our agrarian roots. When the local Schnucks is loaded with aisle after aisle of food, it is quite easy to take such super-abundance for granted. This is not normal, though. Throughout most of human history a good harvest was the difference between life and death. There remain still many, many people without adequate food, even in our own country.

I suggest as the days grow shorter and cooler we reflect on God's gift of food. Most of us have never known true hunger in our lives. We do not give much thought to the farmers, harvesters, and laborers whose hard work and sweat enable us to enjoy our meals. Keep in mind, as well, many who help put food on our tables are undocumented migrants who have become the target of merciless outrage in this country.

I believe the true end of fall is not the winter solstice, but the celebration of Thanksgiving. It is the one time all year when we as a nation call to mind our blessings. We do so, of course, with a wonderful meal. Perhaps during these beautiful, autumn days we should be more magnanimous with our thanks, and not limit it to the last Thursday in November.

BLESSED STANLEY ROTHER

On Sept. 23, Fr. Stanley Rother, a priest and farmer from Okarche, Oklahoma, was beatified. His name appeared on one of the death lists and he returned to Oklahoma in January of 1981 but found it unbearable to be away from the people. He said that a "shepherd cannot run." He returned to Guatemala. On July 28, 1981, gunmen tried to kidnap him. When he resisted, he was shot. The words of Pope Francis can truly be applied to him. He was a shepherd who smelled like his sheep.

Parishioner Sandy Spencer knew Fr. Rother as she worked in a neighboring parish in Guatemala at the same time. On Oct. 29 after the 8:00 Mass in the ballroom, she will share about Fr. Rother and the historical context which led to his murder. She will repeat the presentation after the 10:30 mass on Nov. 12. Blessed Stanley, Pray for us!
